Paul Nigra Center for Creative Arts announces next installment of concert series featuring the JECCO Trio

Gloversville, NY – The next installment of the Paul Nigra Center for Creative Arts' 2016 concert series will take place on Thursday, November 10, with a performance from the JECCO Trio. The concert begins at 7 p.m. at the arts center's facility at 2736 State Highway 30 in Mayfield. Admission is $10 in advance or at the door. Tickets are available for advance purchase at www.pncreativeartscenter.org/concertseries.

The JECCO Trio is a high-octane fusion group that pulls from a wide array of influences to radically interpret classic jazz standards and pop tunes along with original songs. Hailing from the Capital Region and comprised of Lecco Morris on piano, Jeff Nania on tenor sax and Rob Morrison on cajon, tabla and drumset, this trio sports a unique stylistic blend of jazz, funk, pop and free improv that is sure to surprise and delight listeners across the musical spectrum. Their sound pulls from each of the members' wildly different backgrounds, including classical composition, free jazz, Indian classical music and progressive rock.

This performance is part of the Nigra Arts Center's 2016 concert series. The concert series features local bands in a wide variety of genres and styles. Visit www.pncreativeartscenter.org/concertseries to see the full lineup.
